Summary

Goshen Brewing Company is a family-friendly brew pub that is a 100% wind-powered facility. Leveraging an up-cycled industrial space, the founders strived to create an atmosphere that was comfortable and modern for customers to eat, drink, and socialize.

Challenges

The owners wanted to upgrade their patio space and replace big windows with functionally flexible doors so the space could be open to take full advantage of beautiful summer days but also have the often capacity-filled restaurant still feel “open and airy” during the cold winter months.

How the Product Helped

With a beautiful venue that is close to downtown with many natural assets, the full-view garage doors were a perfect addition to the open and airy atmosphere. The full-view doors were an easy choice to elevate the space.

Additional Insights

- The building is located adjacent to a popular bike path, so having the ability to open the doors helps pull recreation users to stop and enjoy a brew.
- Unique track configurations help to maintain clear openings when the doors are in the open position
